A New Direction

Our human resources, as marshalled by the will, were not sufficient; they failed utterly....Every day is a day when we must carry a vision of God's will into all our activities.

ALCOHOLICS ANONYMOUS, p. 45, 85

I hear talk of the “weak-willed” alcoholic, but I am one of the strongest-willed people on earth! I now know that my incredible strength of will is not enough to save my life. My problem is not one of “weakness,” but rather of direction. When I, without falsely diminishing myself, accept my honest limitations and turn to God’s guidance, my worst faults become my greatest assets. My strong will, rightly directed, keeps me working until the promises of the program become my daily reality.
